

Believe in Yourself by Julie Blue

Other people give up but not you

Some people blame their circumstances for all the things they never do

Other people hold on while their hearts turn to stone

You found the inspiration to keep climbing on your own

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Other people told you that your task could not be done

You looked at them and smiled while you ran the race and won

You've know loss and sadness you've drunk from sorrow's well

You've moved mountains you have truth to tell

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Every step of the way every move that you make

Every turn of the trail every step that you take

When the doorway of opportunity opens for you walk through

Believe in Yourself by Julie Blue

Other people give up but not you

Some people blame their circumstances for all the things they never do

Other people hold on while their hearts turn to stone

You found the inspiration to keep climbing on your own

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Other people told you that your task could not be done

You looked at them and smiled while you ran the race and won

You've know loss and sadness you've drunk from sorrow's well

You've moved mountains you have truth to tell

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Every step of the way every move that you make

Every turn of the trail every step that you take

When the doorway of opportunity opens for you walk through

Believe in Yourself by Julie Blue

Other people give up but not you

Some people blame their circumstances for all the things they never do

Other people hold on while their hearts turn to stone

You found the inspiration to keep climbing on your own

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Other people told you that your task could not be done

You looked at them and smiled while you ran the race and won

You've know loss and sadness you've drunk from sorrow's well

You've moved mountains you have truth to tell

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Every step of the way every move that you make

Every turn of the trail every step that you take

When the doorway of opportunity opens for you walk through

Other people give up but not you

Some people blame their circumstances for all the things they never do

Other people hold on while their hearts turn to stone

You found the inspiration to keep climbing on your own

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Other people told you that your task could not be done

You looked at them and smiled while you ran the race and won

You've know loss and sadness you've drunk from sorrow's well

You've moved mountains you have truth to tell

Believe in yourself

Everything you do

Believe in yourself

Visualize, think it through

Every step of the way every move that you make

Every turn of the trail every step that you take

When the doorway of opportunity opens for you walk through